

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A gaming machine according to this invention comprises a cabinet, a door, a liquid crystal display unit, a transparent member, and a buffer. The door is openably and reclosably supported by the cabinet. The liquid crystal display unit is supported by the door and provides an image associated with a game. The transparent member is supported by the door. The buffer is provided between the liquid crystal display unit and the door.